I promoted and sold jewelry and art objects to local clients and tourists as the shop was situated in the center of the city next to 4 hotels.

I especially enjoyed selecting certain items that I wanted to sell and persuading the clients into buying them.

I was part of an outsourced recruitment team for a Big 5 Audit company from UK. I worked in the experienced hire team where I had to organize interviews, support the candidates with all required info, reset passwords and verify identity of the requester, answer various queries from potential candidates, actual candidates, recruiters and managers.

I worked on various VDIs with an internal ticketing system, with IBM lotus notes, outlook and gmail.

As a hotel receptionist, I was the friendly face that greeted and assisted guests throughout their stay. I handled check-ins, check-outs, and reservations, both in person and over the phone. I also provided information about the hotel's services and local attractions, making sure guests had a memorable experience. Whenever issues arose, I was quick to find solutions and ensure guests felt well taken care of. By collaborating with other hotel departments, I helped create a smooth and welcoming environment for everyone. Overall, my communication and organizational skills made a positive impact on guests, ensuring they had a fantastic stay.

As a relief crewmember (second cook), I had the opportunity to work across three stations: Cold Galley, Hot Galley, and Breakfast. Throughout the contracted season, our days were typically around 13 hours long, occasionally varying between 12 to 14 hours. This experience exposed me to a fast-paced work environment, allowing me to collaborate with a diverse group of individuals from various backgrounds and social layers. Embracing the role of a relief crewmember, I learned to adapt swiftly to the team's requirements while maintaining high standards of work. This experience taught me valuable skills in teamwork, adaptability, and respecting established procedures.

Beskrivelse

Throughout my university experience and volunteer work, I honed valuable skills in self-management and gained a deeper understanding of human behavior. My ability to research topics effectively was strengthened, and I also developed the expertise to conduct classes on diverse subjects during my time as a volunteer. Additionally, I possess a good understanding of statistics. However, the most significant impact of my education in this field lies in the transformative way it has shaped my worldview. I now comprehend the underlying reasons behind people's actions, thoughts, and emotions much more profoundly than ever before, making me a more empathetic and insightful individual.
