ID: 9333

My name is José Augusto Pereira Vilas Boas, and I am very interested in the Seasonal Agricultural Worker position under the H-2A program. I am currently completing an agricultural internship in the United States and would welcome the opportunity to continue working on a dairy cattle farm where I can contribute my experience, dedication, and strong work ethic.

I have hands-on experience working with both beef and dairy cattle, including feeding, watering, handling, vaccination, pasture management, and general animal care. I am familiar with assisting during calving season and performing daily livestock monitoring and maintenance tasks to ensure animal health and productivity.

In addition to livestock work, I have experience in crop production and general farm operations. My responsibilities have included planting crops, applying fertilizers and pesticides, loading and unloading harvested products and materials, assisting with farm machinery, and maintaining clean, safe, and organized work areas. I am accustomed to physically demanding work and long hours, especially during peak agricultural seasons.

I consider myself disciplined, responsible, and a fast learner. I adapt quickly to new routines and tasks and always strive to meet or exceed employer expectations. If needed, I can provide contact information for my American supervisors, who can confirm my reliability, work ethic, and professional performance.

I respectfully request the opportunity to work on your farm and assure you that I will do my best to be a dependable and valuable worker throughout the season.

Thank you very much for your time and consideration.

Описание

I am a student of Agronomy, with academic training focused on agricultural and livestock production, sustainable land management, and technical decision-making in farming systems. Throughout my studies, I have developed both theoretical and practical knowledge in crop production, animal production, soil fertility and management, plant protection, agricultural machinery, irrigation, and farm management.

My education includes training in crop management, pest, disease, and weed control, and the proper use of fertilizers and crop protection products, following good agricultural and environmental practices. I have also gained experience in beef and dairy cattle management, including animal health, nutrition, welfare, and daily farm routines.

The Agronomy program provides a broad and integrated understanding of agricultural systems, preparing me to assist in the planning, execution, and monitoring of farming and livestock operations, with a strong focus on productivity, efficiency, and sustainability.
